A SNOWY START

On an icy morning in December, I woke up with a start. I had a funny feeling that I was about to go on a fabumouse new adventure. My name is Stilton, Geronimo Stilton, and I run The Rodent's Gazette, the most famous newspaper on Mouse Island!

Brrrr! It was cold enough to freeze cheese soup! A breeze ruffled my whiskers as I dragged myself out of bed. “I hope it’s not going to snow today,” I muttered.

I stepped over to the window and sighed. BIG WHITE flakes drifted by. “Frosted feta! It’s already snowing! Who knows what kind of slushy mess I’ll find today on the streets of New Mouse City!”

I bundled up in my WARMEST winter gear and left the house. Time to head to The Rodent's Gazette office and get to WORK!

Despite the weather, the center of town was filled with mice cheerfully making their way to work, or school, or to run errands. No one seemed as bothered by the SNOW as me!

I crossed Singing Stone Plaza, the main square in New Mouse City, and looked up in amazement. One of the buildings was covered in an ENORMOUSE blue SHEET, with a big GOLDEN R in the middle of it.

What in the name of cheddar biscuits is that doing there? I wondered.

The building next to that one was also covered up with a sheet! This sheet was LEOPARD PRINT?
STRANGE!

Meanwhile, a few passersby SQUEAKED excitedly among themselves, as if they were waiting for something.

I really wanted to stay and see what all the fuss was about, but I was already running late. The news waits for no mouse!

I stomped my paws to warm them up and pulled my jacket around me more tightly. Thundering rat tails, I couldn't wait for summer! I shook the ice off my whiskers and turned away from the STRANGE, fabric-draped buildings. Maybe later I'd have time to come back and see what was REALLY going on here.
