About This Book

One of Fergus' favourite things to do is go to the beach with his little brother Dink. They love spending all day collecting treasures. Fergus especially loves treasure hunting because it gives him a really good excuse to avoid the yucky, icky water. Fergus is scared of all the things that lurk beneath the water's surface.

One day they make their greatest find ever — an abandoned surfboard they name Dave! When no one comes to claim "Dave the Surfboard," he becomes the star of their collection. But when Dave accidentally ends up out in the middle of the ocean, Fergus has to find enough courage to save his new friend.

This is a hilariously charming story about being brave, conquering fears and the amazing bond of brotherhood.
