

TRIDAY

I was going to try and stay positive in this journal entry because I'm happy to be back at Jedi Academy and seeing Gaiana and Pasha, but AUGGGGGGGHHHHHHH, MR.G.! All of us spent time meeting with our individual Jedi mentors and already Mr.G. is making it impossible for me.

I thought Master Yoda was supposed to be the wise mystic with confusing sayings! The two classes after my independent study are with Mr.G., too. It's going to be a long school year. It won't be so bad, since I have good friends to relax with. We decided we're going to have a board game night once a week. Gaiana and I were on the same team and won the first game, which is totally the perfect start to the semester!

Before class, introduce a new student, I must.

Transferring from Ossus, Lilly is. Show her today's exercise, can someone?

Hi.

Basically, you need to use the Force to make a sandwich. It's really hard and takes a while to get it right, so try not to screw it up too much.

Okay... like this?

Whoa! She's awesome!

Nice!

Whatever. She didn't even use the ham.

