

“But you are happy in the wind and the rain . . .
I wish I could be like you . . .”

And suddenly Almond was flying with the crows — over the city, over the country, over the sea.

Swooping and diving and flying. Almond pretended to be a crow — and she was a crow.