EXCITED!

It takes a while for our class to settle down. Marcus won't sit still and keeps JUMPING around.

"HEY, TOM! TOM!

I'm doing something in the holidays that would be your DREAM!

DO YOU WANT TO KNOW WHAT IT IS?" he says loudly at me.

"Nah, not really."

Then I turn towards AMY and ask her a question instead.

"What are you doing for half-term, AMY?"

This annoys Marcus a lot, I can tell.

"HANG ON - I haven't told you what I'M doing yet. Trust me, you'll really want to know."

"I've already been to CHOCOLATE
WORLD, Marcus," I remind him.

"I'm not going there - it's something
WAY better than THAT," he says.

Then he waits for us both to guess.

But we don't.

"Do you remember June?" AMY asks me.

"June? Oh yeah, her dad lives next door. She ALWAYS pulls stupid faces  at me, and WORSE than that, she doesn't even like

DUDE3.

I mean, THAT'S unbelievable, right?

June is SO ANNOYING,<sup>DD</sup>

I say as it's all coming back to me now.

"She's my friend. Our dads are friends too, so I'm going to her house one day as she's back for half-term. I thought as you live next door you might want to hang out, or maybe not as June's so annoying," AMY tells me.

(HOW was I supposed to know that they were friends?)

"So when I said June was annoying ... she might have changed," I add, trying to make it sound better.

(ALTHOUGH I bet she still doesn't like DUDE3.)

Speaking of ANNOYING, Marcus is desperate for us to guess what he's up to and

I'M going to HAVE to tell you because I can't WAIT!

"You'd better be quick before the lesson starts," I point out as

Mr Fullerman's already standing up.

OK - I'm going to be GOING TO...

(Too late...)

“PAY ATTENTION,
Class 5F. You all need to write this down in your homework book, please.”

“Over the holidays, your homework is ...”

“ ... TO DO
NO
HOMEWORK!
