Ready, Set, Go!

By Robert Munsch

Illustrated by Michael Martchenko

Miranda's dad is going to his very first marathon. But they get there late and Dad sends Miranda back to the car for his lucky water bottle. Before she can find it, the starter's horn goes off and the runners are off!

Miranda grabs the water bottle and dashes down the course looking for her dad. She runs up hills and down hills, and catches up with runners wearing tutus and vegetable costumes and normal clothes. She asks each one: "Have you seen my dad?" Some of the runners are nice, some ignore her, and some call her a pipsqueak, but none of them has seen her father.

Finally Miranda gets to the finish line, where she finds her father ... and gets a big surprise!

Excerpt from Upside Down Magic:

Nory Horace was trying to turn herself into a kitten.

The kitten had to be a black kitten. And it had to be completely kitten-shaped.

It was the middle of summer. Nory was hiding in her family's garage. Kitten, kitten, kitten, she thought.

She was hiding in case something went wrong. She didn't want anyone to see. Still, if something went really wrong, her brother and sister would be close enough to hear her yell for help.

Or meow for help.

Or roar.

Nory decided not to think about that. Hopefully, she wouldn't need help.

Kitten, kitten, kitten.

She had to master kitten, because tomorrow was the Big Test. Tomorrow, after so many years of waiting, she would finally take the entrance exam for Sage Academy.

The school was very hard to get into. You wouldn't be accepted with anything less than amazing talents. Nory's friends weren't even bothering to try. They were all taking tests for easier schools.

If Nory passed the Big Test, she would start fifth grade at Sage Academy in the fall.

If she failed the test . . .

No. She couldn't fail. She wasn't taking tests for any other schools.

A note from Sarah Mlynowski:

I am so thrilled to introduce Upside-Down Magic to my fellow Canadians!

In a world where everyone has magical powers, what happens when eight kids can't get their magic to work properly? Well, they're put in an upside-down magic class. But is upside down the new right-side up?

I wrote this book with Lauren Miracle and Emily Jenkins, two brilliant writers who happen to be two of my closest friends. How do three people write a book together? In a nutshell: I outline, Lauren writes the first draft, and Emily edits. But we all do a lot of everything.

The best thing about working with friends is that because we love and respect each other, it's completely okay to share ridiculous ideas. In fact, it's encouraged. The best scenes come from ridiculous ideas. Our friendship gives us the freedom to jump as high as we can—and to trust that we are each other's built-in net. Just in case any of the ideas are a little too upside-down.

Happy reading and have a magical day.

Upside Down Magic

By Sarah Mlynowski, Emily Jenkins, Lauren Myracle

From a trio of New York Times bestselling authors comes the hilarious and heartfelt story of a group of magical misfits.

Nory Horace is nine years old. She's resourceful, she's brave, she likes peanut butter cookies. Also, she's able to transform into many different animals. Unfortunately, Nory's shape-shifting talent is a bit wonky. And when she flunks out of her own father's magic academy, Nory's forced to enter public school, where she meets a group of kids whose magic is, well, different.

From Canadian author Sarah Mlynowski, and authors Lauren Myracle, and Emily Jenkins, this offbeat new series chronicles the misadventures of Nory and her oddball friends, who prove that upside-down magic definitely beats right side up.

Whatever After #6: Cold as Ice

By Sarah Mlynowski

Even though my brother and I had decided to stay away from the magic mirror, our puppy had other plans — he bounded right in. What choice did we have but to go in after him?

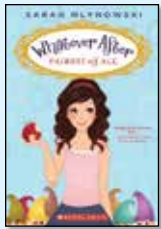

When we land in a winter wonderland, we realize we must be in the story of the Snow Queen. And this fairy tale is nothing like the movie. This Snow Queen is super mean, and she turns our dog into an ice sculpture!

So we have to:

- defrost our furry friend
- ride a very chatty reindeer
- learn to ice-skate
- escape from a band of robbers

And if we're not careful . . . we could end up frozen ourselves!

Excerpt from Young Man With Camera:

*This is not a fire hydrant.
It's a photograph of a fire hydrant. And the truth is, a hydrant isn't always a hydrant.
Sometimes it's a perch.
I stood on my perch to take a picture of Ruby. Ruby is Mr. Lam's daughter. Mr. Lam is the owner of McCreary's Corner Store, which is a lie, since the store is in the middle of the block and should be called McCreary's Nowhere-Near-the-Corner Store. Most of the time, when Mr. Lam is inside, scanning the aisles for shoplifters, Ruby is outside, drawing pictures with chalk.
Once Ruby knows what she's going to draw, it's a short walk between decide and done. I took a bunch of photographs to add to my Sidewalk Series. That's what I call my pictures of Ruby and her sidewalk drawings. Ruby crouched on one spot. Ruby blowing chalk dust. Ruby carefully tracing a line.
She was adding another leaf to a beanstalk (no Jack) and I was on my perch when I heard them. Ryan, Jared, and Med are a thunderand-black-cloud combination. You know a storm is coming before a drop of rain hits the ground.*

Early Praise for Young Man With Camera:

"This is what T— does with his camera: He makes the world larger, deeper, more beautiful and complex. Against this, the evil he confronts can only make the world smaller and uglier. And Young Man With Camera does the same; it reminds us that Art always confronts, and sometimes confounds, Darkness. This is a novel about the beauty that lies within, the darkness that comes from without, and the grace and nobility of a boy who sees it all through his lens. You will grow larger from having read this book." —Gary D. Schmidt, Newbery Honor-winning author of The Wednesday Wars and Orbiting Jupiter

"A brilliantly original voice and a gut-twisting story come together for a dazzling jewel of a book. Truly outstanding." —Kevin Brooks, author of Candy and The Bunker Diary

Young Man With Camera

By Emil Sher

A picture is worth a thousand words — and with a unique photographic format, startlingly original voice, and provocative portrayal of bullying, Young Man With Camera is a debut to get people talking.

T— is used to getting grief. Grief from his mother, who worries about him constantly; grief from Mr. Lam, who runs the corner store and suspects every kid of stealing; grief from the trio of bullies he calls Joined at the Hip, whose cruelty has left T— so battered he fears even his whole name could be used against him.

But T— has his own strength too: his camera, which he uses to capture the unique way he sees the world. His photos connect him to Ms. Karamath, the kind librarian at school; his friend Sean, whose passion for mysteries is matched only by his love for his dog, Watson; and most of all to Lucy, a homeless woman who shares his admiration for the photographer Diane Arbus. When Lucy is attacked by Joined at the Hip, T— captures the assault on film. But those images lead him into even deeper trouble with the bullies, who threaten to hurt Sean if T— tells.

What's the right thing to do? Do pictures ever tell the whole truth? And what if the truth isn't always the right answer?

Born and raised in Montreal, EMIL SHER taught at a secondary school in rural Botswana before returning to Canada to pursue a degree in creative writing. Emil has written professionally ever since: stage plays, screen plays, non-fiction and children's fiction. While his plays, including Hannah's Suitcase, have been widely produced in schools, Young Man With Camera is his first novel. Emil currently lives in Toronto, Ontario with his family.

Excerpt from Sight Unseen:

Here's your latest update: I now had 4.594 million seconds left in the summer. And then there was that bigger number: 5 years.

"That's just the doctor's estimate," Mom said. "You might have a lot more time than that."

"I might have less time too," I said.

I was at the clinic for my fourth appointment in three weeks. Both of my parents came along, which was suspicious. Dad never came to those things.

After ninety minutes of eye drops and flashing lights, Dr. Zhang led me into a small room. "Wait here while I speak with your parents," she said.

"They're my eyes," I said. "Don't I get to hear?"

Half an hour later, in the car driving home, I still didn't have a clue what was going on. Mom and Dad were in the front seat, saying zilch.

"I need glasses, don't I?" I asked.

I already knew my vision was messed up. I couldn't remember the last time I'd scored a goal in ball hockey. Half the time I couldn't find the ball with my stick.

"No," Mom said, "you don't need glasses."

"Seriously?" I could barely believe it. "That's great!"

Mom and Dad glanced at each other. Then Dad pulled the car over to the side of the road. That's the moment I remember best. Dad pulling the car onto the shoulder.

"What's wrong?" I asked. "What did Dr. Zhang say?"

Suddenly Dad reached out. He tried to take my hand. I snapped my fist back, and his arm just hung there over the seat. "Finn," he said, "I'm so, so sorry."

And that was how I found out I was going blind.

A Note from David Carroll:

"My best friend got some terrible news when he was 13. After visiting the eye doctor, he was told he had Stargardt's disease—a rare eye condition that would leave him blind by the age of 18.

At the time, my friend loved playing soccer, riding his bike, and jamming in a garage band. But as his vision deteriorated, he gave those hobbies up. He worried that he'd never get a girlfriend. He suffered depression, panic attacks, and eventually dropped out of school altogether.

That was the first inspiration for Sight Unseen. The second one was Muriel Leeson's classic Oranges and UFO. I adored that book as a kid. I remember being captivated by Leeson's idea of a land where time didn't pass.

When I put those two ideas together, I had the main plot of Sight Unseen. A 13-year-old boy (Finn) is losing his eyesight, and is understandably terrified of the future, but then he discovers a portal to Perpetuum—a place in the mountains where time stands still. There, Finn gets to be a 'normal' kid again—for as long as he wants. Perhaps even forever.

Of course, magic always comes with a price, and Finn must eventually choose between his eyesight and his friends. Once he chooses, there's no going back."

Sight Unseen

By David Carroll

What would it feel like to know you are going blind?

Thirteen-year-old Finn loves bike riding — the more dangerous the trail, the better. But he had a spectacular crash a few months ago, and he's just received a diagnosis that will change his life. He is slowly going blind. In a few years his vision will be gone.

Desperate to salvage something of his "last" summer, Finn invites a friend to the cottage and is drawn to a strange island that seems to glimmer — but no one else can see it. When he gets close, he's sucked into something he could never have anticipated. Can Finn's friend Cheese help him come to terms with "lights out" . . . or will it take something much more extraordinary?

Scenes from the Epic Life of a Total Genius

By Stacey Matson

Lights. Camera. Action! Arthur Bean's life has taken a turn for the adventurous — two girlfriends to deal with, and a blockbuster film to co-write, produce and direct. How crazy can one school year get?

Arthur and Robbie have called a truce now that the writing contest and school play are over...but plans go astray when Arthur's new girlfriend Anila gets jealous of his friendship with Kennedy. And then there's that little problem of the movie camera Arthur and Robbie borrowed to film their upcoming blockbuster movie.

As Arthur's life goes off the rails all over again, laughs for the reader are right on track. Emails, doodles, texts, newspaper articles, AV Club rules (which Arthur and Robbie usually break) give the story the same engaging look as A Year in the Life of a (Total and Complete) Genius.

Speechless

By Jennifer Mook-Sang

Jelly is as surprised as anyone when he decides that he's going to win the annual sixth grade speech contest.

Just like that, Joe Alton Miles, better known as Jelly (because his initials are J.A.M. and his best friend's are P.B.), is faced with overcoming not only his terror of being in the spotlight, but also the wrath of smart, popular Victoria, who believes that the prize (like all prizes) is rightfully hers. At first, Jelly only cares about winning the awesome prize (a new tablet), but as Victoria escalates her campaign against him, Jelly begins to realize that it's not only the prize that's at stake, but also his reputation, his self-respect and the friendship he values most. Jelly must dig deep inside himself to find out if he's strong enough to stand up to Victoria and show everyone what he's really capable of.

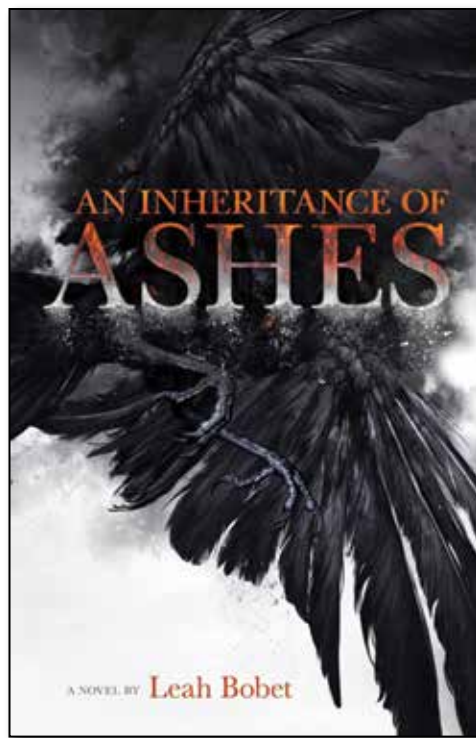

Hilariously funny and just as poignant, Speechless is about finding out who your friends are, giving back, standing up to bullying and finding your own unique voice.

JENNIFER MOOK-SANG lives and writes (while chuckling to herself) with her husband and two sons in Burlington, Ontario. She has a master's degree in psychology and has worked with children of all ages in health and educational settings. She has volunteered as a reading coach and co-ordinator for literacy programs in local schools. Jennifer was a finalist in the Writing for Children Competition 2014 sponsored by CANSCAIP and The Writer's Union of Canada. Speechless is her first novel.

I Am Canada: Brothers in Arms

The Siege of Louisbourg, Sébastien de L'Espérance, New France, 1758

By Don Aker

A riveting story of a pivotal battle in the Seven Years' War that changed Canadian history forever.

Seventeen-year-old Sébastien de L'Espérance and his friend Guillaume have fought to keep the British from getting a foothold in Île Royale (now Cape Breton Island) ever since the young men came from France two years ago. Britain has blockaded Louisbourg, and supplies for the 4000 inhabitants are running short. Despite Louisbourg's massive defences, if cut off from supplies provided by France, it cannot survive.

Both young men are members of the Compagnies Franches de la Marine. They are sent out on scouting missions that provide valuable information about the British troops — troops which outnumber the French three to one. When British warships arrive in force, Sébastien vows to defend the town, his friend Guillaume, and the woman he loves.

Blood Oath

By Don Cummer

Blood brothers Jacob and Eli could become sworn enemies when Eli joins the American invasion of Canada.

After avoiding the gallows and fleeing to the United States, Eli returns to Newark when the American Army attacks Fort George. If he is captured again, he will hang, but his return exposes Jacob to possible charges of treason as well—for helping Eli escape. Two people learn their secret: their two enemies, William and Henry. Eli has scores to settle with them. Can he silence them forever—with pistols at dawn?

Set in the battles of Stoney Creek and Beaver Dams—a period when Canada came closest to losing the War of 1812.

The Very Noisy Bear

By Nick Bland

There's music in the air in the Jingle Jangle Jungle!

Music has caught the ears of one very sleepy Bear. Bear's friends Moose, Zebra, Lion and Sheep have formed a band, and since Bear is already awake, they invite him to join. But first they'll have to find him just the right instrument to play. He tries the drums, the guitar and the trumpet. Turns out he's a very noisy bear. Then finally he tries the microphone, and it seems Bear has found just the right instrument to play.

Nick Bland's fifth book with Bear and his friends is a wonderful celebration of friendship, teamwork, and finding your talents.

NICK BLAND was born in the Yarra Valley of Australia. He was the son of an artist and a primary school teacher, and spent his early years on the farm where his parents lived. At age six, he moved with his family to "the bush." He wanted to be a cartoonist and a writer from a very young age. In 1996, he took a job at a book store, and decided to write and illustrate children's books. His first book, A Monster Wrote Me a Letter, was published in Australia in 2005. He currently lives in Darwin, Australia and works full time as an author and illustrator.

Pig the Fibber

By Aaron Blabey

The world's most insensitive pug is back!

*Pig was a Pug
and I'm sorry to say,
he would often tell lies just to get his own way.*

Pig the Pug tells lies to get what he wants—and to get Trevor the sausage dog in trouble! When Pig hatches a plan to get at the hidden treats in the back of the closet, his lies get Trevor thrown out of the house. Finally he's all alone with those treats. What he didn't expect was the bowling ball.

Maybe this time Pig the Pug will learn his lesson.

AARON BLABEY was a National Literacy Ambassador for Australia in 2012, and (in his own words): "I've done other things too — I've been a painter, a staff writer at a very big advertising agency, a grape picker, a commercial illustrator, a video store dude, an usher, an unconvincing foundry worker (for about five minutes) and for 15 colourful years, I was a fairly dodgy actor who somehow managed to bluff his way into being handed an AFI Award — although if I were the other nominees, I'd have demanded a recount." ## Hockey Luck

By Irene Punt

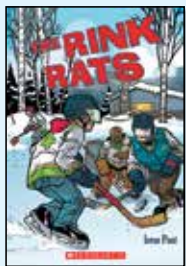

Illustrated by Gary O'Brien

What do you do when your hockey luck runs out?

It's a new season for the Glenlake Hawks. It seems everyone but Tom has a hockey superstition or good luck charm. Mark eats pizza before a game; Harty dresses in a certain order; Stuart wears NHL Band-Aids and Jordan never washes his socks. Even Dad has a superstition: not shaving when the Calgary Flames play.

Tom is in a funk because he doesn't have his old jersey, number 15, which brought him his good luck in the past. Now he wears number 5 and it is giving him bad luck, including no goals. Tom and his friends set out to find him a new good luck charm, but nothing seems to work! Is Tom stuck being unlucky? Or does luck have nothing to do with it?

Five Busy Beavers

By Stella Partheniou Grasso

Illustrated by Christine Battuz

Join five little beavers and their playful friends in this countdown to fun!

*Five busy beavers building up a dam, closing up the river where the salmon swam.
Gnawing down trees and ferrying the logs.
Slapping on the mud that they gathered from the bog.
Along came a muskrat who wanted to play,
and one little beaver swam away.*

A catchy rhyme counts down from five until there is only one hardworking beaver left. The others disappeared one by one, called away to play by their animal friends—a muskrat, a heron, a frog and a turtle. When the fifth tired beaver finally heads back to the lodge he finds a big surprise!

The bouncy story is rounded out with a facts page at the back, with information about each animal featured in the book.
