

Book Talk

Books We Love in August

Pluto Visits Earth!

By Steve Metzger

Illustrated by Jared Lee

We all said “poor Pluto” when news came out that it was no longer considered a planet. Simple amusing text coupled with fun, expressive illustrations, watch Pluto travel through space heading to earth to find out why he’s been demoted. The message that even the smallest dwarf-planet is special will make this a great choice for read-alouds for years to come.

Ages 3-7

“It’s fun and silly, and the voice of Pluto is a relatable 7-year-old boy. And it is full of stealth learning — pick it up just for fun, but by the time you’re finished you’ll know a little bit about astronomy.”

 SCHOLASTIC

www.scholastic.ca