Making the Grade Chapter 20: Smell the Fear

Working with Words—Point of View

Authors use their point of view to bias their argument, shape their characters or advance their perspective on an issue. Editorials often express a particular point of view. In Chapter Twenty, point of view is used to contrast the position between Riley and his parents.

Outline the argument that took place when Riley finally faced up to his parents using the chart:

Riley's Point of View	His Parents' Point of View

Give your point of view on the situation.
