

How to Use Mentor Texts to Inspire Young Writers

25%
OFF!

At a time when students' attention is being pulled in many directions, Penny Kittle shows us how to help them focus and write clearly and compellingly using micro mentor texts. Her book includes dozens of passages and accompanying mini-lessons as well as practice opportunities for students and demonstration videos for you.

KEY FEATURES

- Provides 20 mini-lessons that follow a recurring sequence, from noticing a craft move to modeling it and then practicing it—plus abundant “Your Turn” passages to choose from to make those lessons your own.
- Contains more than 100 short texts to help you engage kids with the words of writers they love.
- Addresses craft moves that appear commonly in state standards for writing confidence as readers and writers.

Extend learning with turnkey lessons and teaching support on the companion website!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Penny Kittle teaches writing at Plymouth State University in New Hampshire. She taught in public schools for 34 years and is the founder of the Book Love Foundation. She has written nine books on teaching and travels the world to learn beside teachers and students.
